Operators and Union are Convinced of Stoppage in Anthracite Mine Field

Arbitration on Every Disputed Point Was Last Offer Employers Had to Make, While Lewis Maintains Men Will Stay Away from Work Unless Wage Increase Is Assured

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 23.—Anthracite mine operators and officials of the miners' union are firmly convinced that September 1st would see a complete stoppage of their industry as a result of failure to make a new wage contract. They remained today in Atlantic City, though all communications between them had been suspended for 48 hours.

Both groups had been definitely told that the United States government has no ground for intervening further to prevent the shutdown, and neither had changed in the slightest degree the conflicting attitudes which made them break off negotiations on Tuesday. Arbitration for every disputed point was the last offer the employers had to make, it was repeated, while the union spokesman, John L. Lewis, steadfastly adhered to the ultimatum that the men would stay away from work unless a wage increase was assured.

Pantages

Comedians who failed to win prizes at the flower show, school students who did not pass their examinations, or farmers who are dubious about the success of the wheat crop, and consequently are victims of the blight, will find the Pantages theatre an admirable spot this week for a night of their own. The Pantages has sent along a real comedy bill, and in practically every number on the long program laughter, good-nature and the audience is left with a lot of the fun of the show. Critic have pronounced it the best bill of the summer season, and that the public agrees with this opinion is manifest by the big multi-ple performance. In addition to tonight's show, there will be matinee and evening performances on Saturday, bringing to a close the engagement of the present bill.

There are three headline attractions at the Pantages, this week. "The Overalls" is a musical offering by a clever company headed by Miss Penny Chawick, directed from the New York Hippodrome. In which the comedians come thick and fast. Dora Vane and Lucile Temple have been stepping the show at every performance. Mr. "The" is a big master of absurdities, while Miss Temple also is a big master in the success of the act. Another high-class offering, entitled to headline honors is "From the Bottom to the Top" in which Miss Lenore comes out in a decided novelty for Edmonton.

Two of Russia's foremost dancers, Olga and Nicholas, are seen in a splendid selection of classical and the dances, not forgetting the funny dances of their native country. "The Girl Next Door" is a comedy play presented by Lucile Temple and Kenneth Graham, who also introduce some useful material.

LIONEL BARRYMORE

There are a few royal families of the American stage. One of the greatest of these is the Drews-Barrymore line. Mrs. John Drew, actress and manager of a Philadelphia stock company in the early days, was the founder of the family. Her son, John Drew, is one of the brightest particular luminaries of the American stage which he has played for nearly half a century. His daughter, Louise, was an actress until her marriage to Jack Deveraux. His sister, Georgia, married Maurice Barrymore, the brilliant young Irish actor who came to the United States in the late seventies. The three children of Maurice Barrymore and his wife were thus born to the royal purple. Lionel, the eldest, is featured in the Canadian picture, "Reminiscences of William," pictured from Vincent Wallace. Another novel, which is the attraction of all this week. He made his first appearance upon the stage with the John Drews in "The Rivals." After a few years' tour the stage he returned to become a player and spent several years in Paris studying art, in which he remains intensely interested.

CARS ARE DETAINED

Service on the low level hall line last night was interrupted for about 2:30 till 3:30 o'clock caused by the heavy downpour of rain washing gravel down and over the tracks on Saskatchewan Hill from the road leading onto that avenue. Three cars in all were detained through the blockage of the tracks with the washed down stuff.

GADSBY CROPS LOOKING FINE SAYS VISITOR

Mrs. W. Rogers of 1114-18th avenue, has just returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. F. P. of 1114-18th avenue, who is a member of the Gadsby Crops. She says that the crops in that district were looking fine. She made a tour by auto to the surrounding country, all the farms were a mass of wheat. Just turning a golden color. Further south, however, there are some very large strips of fields which have suffered from hail and in other sections from the high winds. That has been unexpected. Mrs. Rogers said that her son expected to harvest at least 10,000 bushels of wheat. Mr. P. would be starting his cutting early next week and he hoped to escape the bad effects of a frost, which most farmers claim is due when the moon comes full. Mrs. Rogers said that there was very little frost in that district as very little frost had been reported. It is thought that there will not be very much frost from the contrary which all are duty bound to believe. The winter season Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and family come from the farm and reside in their new brick house on 12th street.

HEAVY RAIN AT WETASWIKIN

J. Phasney Jr. of Phasney Bros. south side butchers, who motored down to Wetaskwin, and back on Wednesday evening, reports that at about ten o'clock the Wetaskwin district was visited with a very heavy rain storm. The roads which were in fine condition on the down journey, were very poor when he returned. For the windy mile, which covers the round trip, Mr. Phasney averaged twenty miles an hour, which he claimed was very good indeed considering the bad state of mind of the roads when he returned.

Rockyford Team Has Lost Lefty Brown, Their Star Moundman.
While Sox Have Added Fernald, Rankin and McLeod to Their Lineup—Provincial Intermediate Playoffs Next Week

Edmonton Red Sox will clash with Rockyford in the semifinal for the Alberta amateur baseball championship according to the draw issued yesterday by the baseball association. Fans here will remember the Rockyford team when they came to Edmonton for three games, and were beaten in a rough and rowdy series. Well, the Rockyford team has lost Lefty Brown, their star pitcher, by the suspension rule.

The series between the Sox and Rockyford will be played either at Red Deer or Olds on Monday and will consist of two games on the same day or three games on Wednesday and Thursday. The drawing game is being played at Calgary today. If Rockyford wins they play Coleman. If Calgary wins they play Medicine Hat, which will win the winner of the Rockyford game.

In the intermediate series Calgary and Medicine Hat, play off and Red Deer and Edmonton, each have a bye. The winners of these games are to be played next week.

Tom Rynard, manager of the Sox states that he has a team he feels confident will win the provincial championship for the third consecutive year.

Although badly hit by the suspension rule he has picked up the club to a point where it is a decidedly dangerous, looking aggregation. To the point Henderson at first base has secured Roy Forman the heavy hitting first baseman of the Canadian club.

With back from the pitching staff along with Ken Cullen, first baseman of the team is in excellent condition. The Sox have added Fernald, Rankin and McLeod to their lineup. The Sox have a snappy looking team.

The Lamont and Mirror teams were both in the city yesterday ready for their game last night. Both teams are in the money. The Mirror team is the one which will be played at the first of a double header on Saturday afternoon, the second being a playoff to decide place and money.

WHAT THE FARMER SIGNS

The farmer who signs the wheat pool contract signs away his right to the use of at least one third of the price of his wheat crop for the year—Section 12.

Binds himself to pay two cents a bushel out of the price of his wheat to purchase stock in any elevator enterprise decided on by the pool—Section 6, sub-section (f).

Permits the pool to deduct one per cent from the price of his wheat to be used for "any of the purposes or activities of the association"—Section 6, sub-section (d).

Agrees that the pool may take from the money due him the cost of statistical or other agencies in any place in the world—Section 26.

Binds himself to deliver his wheat at such place and at such time as the pool orders—Sections 4 and 5.

Agrees to accept such grading as the pool allows him—Section 24.

Agrees to submit to any dockage the pool sees fit to take—Section 13.

Agrees to be a party to contravening the Canadian Grain Act in the matter of car orders—Section 15.

Binds his successors and assigns as well as himself for the period of five years to deliver to the pool all the wheat grown on any land over which he has control—Section 19.

Agrees in advance to the granting of a court injunction to prevent his delivering wheat except to the pool, with a fixed minimum penalty of 25 cents for every bushel of wheat so delivered—Sections 11 and 22.

Agrees that the pool may seize and sell his crop in the field or elsewhere, "in the event of the grower failing to fulfill on his part the provisions of this agreement, or any of them"—Section 6, sub-section (g).

Agrees in advance that he has no claim upon the pool for "exceptional capacity or talents" in its work of handling and marketing his crop—Section 22.

Agrees that the pool shall pay out of the price of his wheat all advertising, brokerage, legal expenses, tolls, taxes, freights, elevator charges, interest and sinking fund charges, salaries and general expenses—Section 6 sub-section (d).

Places himself in such a legal position that he cannot demand an accounting by the pool, or an audit of its books—Section 25.

Empowers the pool as his duly authorized legal agent "to make any arrangements that it may consider desirable for the co-operative 'marketing' of the 1923 wheat crop, for any reason "in the opinion of the association" it becomes "impracticable or impossible" to give effect to the terms of the contract as signed—Section 27.

Agrees that if nothing is done by the pool to handle the 1923 wheat crop the agreement remains binding upon him for the four succeeding years—Section 28.

What the pool agrees to do:
Will make an advance to the grower "so soon as practicable after delivery of the wheat." And it will be in its discretion "from time to time pay over to the grower as funds are available" from the sale of the crop each season, "less all deductions which the association is entitled to make," and "less all advances made to the grower and less all handling and other proper charges of every description whatsoever, including the costs of maintaining the association."

THE FLOWER SHOW

The flower and vegetable show held this week in the Memorial hall under the auspices of the Horticultural society was one of which the city may well be proud. The potted plants and cut flowers made up a display that was magnificent beyond description, and in variety it ran all the way from the common pansy to a three-foot Ruppel oak tree grown outdoors at Edmonton from an acorn. Another surprise was a branch from a strapping tree growing in an Edmonton garden, loaded with apples of large size and fine appearance, alongside two boxes of different varieties of crab grown at the University. Garden statistics of all kinds were taken in quantity, from potatoes to green corn and ripe tomatoes, uniformly large in size and of the finest appearance. By no means least interesting or important was the display of canned fruits and vegetables, in which it ran all the way from the common apple to the most delicate of delicacies. The family independent of the tin can. The visitor did not need to be reminded that gardening has always been a favorite pastime of the Edmonton householder, nor that flower beds are to be found on many public and private grounds which are places of wondrous beauty.

Taken altogether the show was creditable in the highest degree alike to the society, to the city and district, and by no means least to the skill and enterprise of the growers. That this annual event is making a place for itself is attested both by the number of exhibitors and by the crowds of visitors. More than fourteen hundred exhibits were entered in competition, and where excellence was the universal rule the judging must have been difficult. The flowers and community displays of garden produce occupied the entire hall and the other vegetable exhibits had to be housed in tents. It is by no means impossible that in the course of a few years what has been modestly begun as a flower and vegetable show may develop into a full-fledged fall fair, where garden and field products of all kinds will be shown at maturity. That there is room for a fair of the kind here is apparent, and the benefits to be derived from it are undoubted. Several years ago the exhibition association attempted something of the kind, but it was apparently ahead of time and had to be abandoned for lack of popular support. There are signs that with the increase of population in the city and country, and the growing attention that is being paid to the vegetable garden and the flower plot, what was then impracticable will soon be possible.

NOT THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY

What is cash. The Western farmer is paid for his wheat when he delivers it to the receiving elevator. That wheat does not reach the British miller until weeks or possibly months afterwards. The British miller pays for it when he gets it. The amount of money necessary to move the Western Canadian wheat crop is therefore very great. Lessen any very reasonable means is taken to lessen the amount of cash that must be tied up while the wheat is passing from the western farmer to the British mill. And as well to lessen the danger of loss from market fluctuations during that process.

The British miller must keep up a continuous supply of flour for his customers. If he maintained that supply by purchasing and keeping in store large stocks of wheat the outlay of cash and the carrying charge would be a heavy addition to his production costs, which he would have to add to the price of his flour. The British miller knows or estimates what volume of wheat he will need from month to month; but instead of buying and storing it he contracts a sufficient number of months in advance with the Canadian exporter (or the importer of some other country, according to the period of the year) for delivery by him of the amount of wheat he requires, at the time and of the quality required. Contracts for delivery in September, October and November are necessarily made from two to three months before the date of overseas delivery. This means that when the crop begins to move in August and September that it already placed overseas at the best price that could be secured for it on the prospect of supply and demand as they were at the time the contract was made. The crop season in Canada therefore usually opens with a demand to be filled; which the grain dealers who have made contracts must fill, whatever the price they have to pay for the wheat. This condition is one of the factors that tends to good prices at the opening of the marketing season.

If Canadian exporters have made no contract in advance, first of all, they are not forced to buy, and second, unless the market outlook is bright they are not inclined to push purchases. This condition tends to depress prices to the Western producer and means in the aggregate millions of dollars less to the farmers. To the West, and to Canada. That was the condition that prevailed last year at the opening of the crop season. Owing to the prospective establishment of the wheat board and the possible commanding of wheat by that authority, exporters were unable to make contracts in advance. When the wheat board blew up and the grain came on the market there were no contracts to absorb it. The British miller had gone elsewhere for his wheat. It was months before market conditions as between Canada and Europe became normal, and in the meantime the Western Canadian farmer had registered losses amounting to millions, as a result of the pernicious activities of the professional agitators who led the demand for a wheat board.

This year the process is being repeated so far as possible in the wheat pool agitation. If the wheat pool project succeeds and the wheat of the West is tied up to the pool, exporters who have made contracts to deliver will be unable to fulfill their contracts. It is more than likely that many have declined to make contracts in view of the possibility of the success of the pool. In so far as that is the case the result must be to depress the price of wheat to the producer just the same as last year. Instead of the wheat pool agitation improving the price of wheat to the farmer this year, its only possible result is to cause a price depression during the part of the season that passes before it is able to function. If and when it does function it will give the farmer only two thirds of the market value of his crop with which to pay his field costs and carry on his household for another year. That is not the way to prosperity.

Vernon, Texas, was all set "nice and pretty" with its water pipe and then discovered that the pumping equipment was among the stolen. An Engineer John Huxley of the fire department promptly brought his engine around and did all the pumping that was necessary to quench the threatened fire.

GASOLINE FOR 15.5 CENTS GAL. AT SIOUX FALLS

Independent Dealers Bring the Price Down to That of Standard Oil Co.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 23.—Independent oil dealers in Sioux Falls will reduce their price for gasoline tomorrow to 15.5 cents a gallon, the price maintained by the Standard Oil company in South Dakota, according to an announcement made tonight.

"We realize that this price," the announcement says, "will put a large percentage of dealers at a disadvantage tomorrow, but we are willing to sacrifice for 15.5 cents a gallon to bring about a general reduction of the price of gasoline in this state."

The announcement criticized the policy of W. M. McMaster for his action two weeks ago in precipitating the gasoline price war by reducing the product for 14 cents a gallon through supply dealers of the state highway commission.

It was the personal victory of the governor, but it is a sad tragedy for the ordinary dealer who has sacrificed to the governor's ambition. The independent dealers who are now in a financial straits are now in a financial straits. The governor is now in a financial straits.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Hon. Asst. Minister of Finance, Mr. J. A. Robb, minister of immigration, will be in charge of the opening of the season of George J. Graham, Mr. Robb and Mr. John Smith from Montreal on Saturday.

Unknown Sense

EVERY DAY A SCHOOL DAY.
The title of this article will probably not appeal to small boys and girls. As yet education has not been made so interesting that young people are particularly fond of it. By and by when they discover it is not so tedious they will be glad to go to school. They begin to wish that the day really was a school day when they could study their brains with the kind of interest that they have in their youth.

Every day is a school day to the thoughtful mind. There is more to be learned than any of us can manage to store in our heads in the thirty-six hours of a day. But most of us learn only about a quarter of what we might learn if we trained our eyes to see and our ears to listen, and our minds to be constantly alert to it by the way we use the listening ear.

...ing place, and one about which human beings, despite all their knowledge and advancement, know very little.

LORD LOVAT WAS GREETED IN CITY BY OLD FRIENDS

With Lord Lovat's appearance in the Macdonald hotel lobby on Thursday morning after breakfast he was greeted by a number of friends who had known him in Montreal or who had served with him during the South African war in Lovat's Scouts. Among the number was Captain W. J. Emile, who had been a recipient of his own day's medal in the Highland Light Infantry, when the Edmonton staff was brought up. His father, Major John Emile of Strathmore, Alberta, who served his life-time in the First Canadian Hussars, was formerly associated with Lord Lovat when the latter commanded the raising of his scouts for the South African war, and Captain Emile has many recollections incident to the recruiting of the Highland Light Infantry in the famous regiment. Lord Lovat's principal residence, Bowle Castle, is close to Inverness, where his mounted infantry was assembled and during this period the Highland chief was a familiar figure at the barracks.

Captain Emile states that Lord Lovat is a man of the most kindly and generous disposition, which is shown out in part by his appearance in Edmonton, where he is the guest of well-ground men, he is a true friend, and apparently gave his life thought to the welfare of his men.

Besides Making Work Clothes the "G.W.G." Has Helped to Make Edmonton

A city has been defined as "a cohesive body with organic growth controlled by economic laws."

The most important elements in the structure of cities are their institutions, which mirror the life of their inhabitants whose activities increase in diversity and importance as the struggle for bare existence is left behind.

In the same manner one cannot contemplate Edmonton without serious regard for importance of the "G.W.G." in the economic life of the community.

But, primarily "G.W.G." garments merit the consistently repeated patronage they receive—in materials—in design and serviceable durability.

See the big display of our entire lines at James Ramsey, Ltd., and be convinced that for every dollar you spend on "G.W.G." goods you not only support an Edmonton industry but get better value for your money.

WINNAPPE, Aug. 23.—The local corn market was quiet, but there appeared to be no outside trade developing in future contracts. The price of No. 2 yellow corn was also increased appreciably because of the shortage of new arrivals. Winnap's price for No. 2 yellow corn was increased 1 cent to 1.05. Lower cables resulted in a slight decline at the opening, but the market recovered to 1.04 1/2, and at the close values were 1.04. The market was expected to rebound continues to report a very limited export trade.

There was a slight trade passed in oats, but other coarse grains were quiet and showing a little weakness. The market for No. 2 white clover was quiet, but the price appeared sufficient to supply the demand from day to day.

AY TATTOO STORE
CATTLE IN PLACE OF THE BRAND

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(Canadian wire Cable).—Canadian cattle coming to this country may be tattooed with the brand of the Canadian Cattle Brand according to a statement made by the Canadian Cattle Brand Association here yesterday. The taxes may be on the left ear of an animal in the form of a capital letter. This operation, it is stated, is simple one and practically painless.

The substituting of the tattooing the branding method for the certification of imported Canadian cattle is due to the spirit made by the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.
